THE FANNER FINDING

The Coroner's Jury Says Death Resulted From Exposure.

The inquest on the body of M. C. Fanner, found on the desert twenty-five miles west of Wickenburg, was concluded yesterday by Acting Coroner Burnett. That jury found that so far as could be ascertained death was the result of exposure and thirst. There was presented to the jury a statement by Dr. H. A. Hughes, who examined the remains, that the examination, on account of the advanced stage of decomposition, was very unsatisfactory. The skull was intact, and no marks of violence were discoverable. On none of the other bones could such marks be found save those made by wild animals.

The verdict of the jury has not been recorded, and will not be until after another attempt to arrive approximately of the death of Fanner. The coroner wrote to D. W. Hall, of Salome, who furnished the first story of the finding of the body, regarding his knowledge of the time that Fanner left there for Phoenix. Mr. Hall replied that he could not be sure of the date, but it must have been a month or two ago. He said that a man whom he supposed to be Fanner, left there accompanied by a younger man, quite a large man about forty years of age. About the same time two Mexicans left. All of them were coming to Phoenix by the way of Buckeye. Mr. Hall said he warned them of the perils of the desert at this time of year, and told them there was a stretch of thirty-five or forty miles in which they could not find water.

The men must have stopped at J. A. Reed's ranch below Harrisburg, and Mr. Reed, he thought, would be likely to remember the time of their appearance there. Mr. Hall said that so many men had left Salome for Phoenix, that he cannot remember definitely any particular party. In this case he had either cashed a check for the smaller man of the two (Fanner), or else Fanner had received a letter through the postoffice.

There had been the merest surmise that Fanner might have been murdered, since nothing had ever been heard of his companion. Mr. Hall does not think that it is probable, for he said that none of the men had money enough to attract murderously. The fact that Fanner's companion never turned up, leads Mr. Hall to believe that he too is dead on the desert. But he adds, that unless his body lies along the road, there is little use in hunting for it; there is too much country.

On the subject of death on the desert, Mr. Hall says that he knows of three who have died in the brief time he has been in that part of the country. No doubt, he says, these three are but a small number in comparison with all who have died, for many Mexicans Indians and others, without friends or relatives to inquire about them, have started across, and have never since been heard of.

HEAD SOLID SORE

Awful Suffering of Baby and Sleepless Nights of Mother.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Skin Fair as a Lily with no Scar to Recall Awful Sore Writes Mother.

"I herewith write out in full the beginning and end of that terrible disease eczema," says Mrs. Wm. Ryer, Elk River, Minn., "which caused my babe untold suffering and myself many sleepless nights. My babe was born seemingly a fair, healthy child, but when she was three weeks old a swelling appeared on the back of her head, and in course of time broke. It did not heal but grew worse, and the sore spread from the size of a dime to that of a dollar. I used all kinds of remedies that I could think of, but nothing seemed to help; in fact, it grew worse. Her hair fell out where the sore was, and I feared it would never grow again. It continued until my aged father came on a visit, and when he saw the baby he told me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment right away.

CURE PERMANENT

"Your letter of the 10th inst. received, asking in regard to the cure of my baby some six years ago. Well, the disease has never returned to her head which at that time was a solid sore on top and down the back."

DEATH OF FRANK M. TURRILL

A Young Man Who Once Resided in Phoenix.

The following from the issue of October 5, of the La Voz Publica, published at Santa Rosa, New Mexico, relates to the death of a young man very well known in Phoenix:

Judge Frank M. Turrill, who died at Santa Rosa, N. M., October 1, 1905, was born at Pleasant Ridge, a suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio, on St. Valentine's Day, 1867. His father, H. B. Turrill, was a well-known lawyer in Cincinnati, where he and a brother of deceased, Geo. A. Turrill, continued the practice of law.

In early life the subject of our sketch entered the postal service, and for eight years was chief clerk in the Cincinnati postoffice.

His health compelled him to resign and he spent several years in Phoenix, Arizona and Southern California. On his return to Cincinnati he attended the law school, from which he graduated in 1895. He again sought health in North Carolina, Arizona and California.

In 1898 he organized Co. K, Eleventh Ohio Volunteers, for service in the Spanish war. The regiment, however, was not mustered in the service, as Ohio had only ten regiments in the field. Determined to go to Cuba, he entered the postal service, where he served with honor in Havana and Cienfuegos. In Havana he had the yellow fever.

On his return to Ohio, he concluded to come to Santa Rosa, where he has been located since September, 1901. Here in January last, he was nominated and unanimously elected justice of the peace, an office he discharged with fidelity and good judgment. During his residence here he made numerous friends. He was unmarried.

His brother, in response to a telegram from Dr. Bakes, hurried to Santa Rosa, but arrived too late to see Judge Turrill alive. The funeral was held at the Baptist church, of which denomination deceased was a consistent member, the sermon being by Rev. Milton Reece, of Tucuman, and the remains were buried in Evergreen cemetery.

STREET RAILWAY PERMIT

The Supervisors Issue One to Phoenix Railway.

The matter of transportation facilities to the territorial fair ground has been finally disposed of, and there will be no further bickering and delay. For several days officers and members of the territorial fair association have been endeavoring to effect an arrangement between the street car company and the board of supervisors. Yesterday afternoon a delegation from the association appeared before the board, presented a letter from the association setting forth the action of the association empowering the committee to ask for a permit in the name of the Phoenix Street railway. A form of the permit was presented. It does not propose a change of the plans under which the company had begun to build a line when it was stopped by the revocation of the Dunbar franchise. It authorized the company to use a five-foot wide of the northeast side of the avenue, work to be begun on the line immediately, and completed within three months. The avenue was not to be interfered with more than was absolutely necessary. The single line of poles is to be not less than four feet from the track. The track is to be built on a grade a little higher than the curb line, on account of the water which frequently reaches that height. The company is to gravel its right of way for two feet on each side of the track, or if the supervisors prefer, it will plank the track between the rails and for the width of a foot on each side.

The board raised a single objection to the form of the permit. It thought that a width of twenty-five feet was more than was necessary for the use of the road, and cut this figure down to sixteen feet, providing though, that where switches are required, ten additional feet would be allowed. In this form the permit was granted. It should be stated that another condition of the permit is that it does not prejudice the claims of either the board or the company in the controversy regarding the Dunbar franchise.

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test consists of a boiling solution of water and caustic soda, the chemicals action of which dissolves wool but not cotton. The two samples here shown were originally of the same length, the test proved one to be all wool, containing the part intended and leaving only the blackened edge. The other proved to be an adulteration containing a large per cent of mercerized cotton.
